NEW AGRICULTURAL SETTLEMENT.

TO ALL WANTING FARMS,

A RARE OPPORTUNITY IN A DELIGHTFUL AND HEALTHY CLIMATE 25 MILES SOUTH-EAST OF PHILADELPHIA, ON THE CAMDEN AND ATLANTIC RAILROAD, NEW JERSEY.

An old estate consisting of several thousand of acres of productive soil has been divided into Farms of various sizes to suit the purchaser. A population of some Fifteen Hundred, from various parts of the middle States and New England have settled there the past year, improved their places, and raised excellent crops. The price of the land is at the low sum of from $15 to $20 per acre, the soil of the best quality for the production of Wheat, Clover, Corn, Peaches, Grapes and Vegetables. IT IS CONSIDERED THE BEST FRUIT SOIL IN THE UNION. The place is perfectly secure from frosts—the destructive enemy of the farmer. Crops of grain, grass and fruit are now growing and can be seen. By examining the place itself, a correct judgment can be formed of the productiveness of the land. The terms are made easy to secure the rapid improvement of the land,, which is only sold for actual improvement. The result has been, that within the past year, some three hundred houses have been erected, two mills, one steam, four stores, some forty vinyards and peach orchards, planted, and a large number of other improvements, making it a pesirable and active place of business.

THE MARKET,

BEST IN THE UNION,

Products bringing double the price than in locations away from the city, and more than double the price in the West. It is known that the earliest and best fruits and vegetables in this latitude come from New Jersey, and are annually exported to the extent of millions.

In locating here, the settler has many advantages. He is within a few hours ride of the great cities of New England and Middle country where every improvement of comfort and civilization is at hand.— He can buy every article he wants at the cheapest price, and sell his produce for the highest, (in the West this is reversed,) he has schools for his children, divine service, and will enjoy an open winter, and delightful climate, where fevers are utterly unknown. The result of the change upon those from the north, has generally been to restore them to an excellent state of health.

In the way of building and improving, lumber can be obtained at the mills at the rate of $10 to $15 per thousand. Bricks from the brick yard opened in the place, every article can be procured in the place; good carpenters are at hand, and there is no place in the Union where buildings and improvements can be made cheaper.

The reader will at once be struck with the advantages here presented, and ask himself why the property has not been taken up before. The reason is, it was never thrown in the market; and unless these statements were correct, no one would be invited to examine the land before purchasing. This all are expected to do. They will sell land under cultivation, such is the extent of the settlement that they will no doubt, meet persons from their own neighborhood; they will witness the improvements and can judge the character of the population. If they come with a view to settle, they should come prepared to stay a day or two and be ready to purchase, as locations cannot be held on refusal.

There are two daily trains to Philadelphia, and to all settlers who improve, THE RAILROAD COMPANY GIVES A FREE TICKET FOR SIX MONTHS AND A HALF-PRICE TICKET FOR THREE YEARS.

THE TOWN OF HAMMONTON.

In connection with the agricultural settlement, a new and thriving town has naturally arisen, which presents inducements for any kind of business, particularly stores and manufactories. The Shoe business could be carried on in this place and market to good advantage, also cotton business, and manufactories of agricultural implements or Foundries for casting small articles. The improvement has been so rapid as to insure a constant and permanee ncrease of business Town lots of a good size, we do not sell small ones, as it would affect the improvement of the place can be had at from $100 and upwards.

The Hammonton Farmer, a monthly literary and agricultural sheet, containing full information of Hammonton, can be obtained at 25 cents per annum.

Title indisputable—warrantee deeds given, clear of all incumbrance when money is paid. Route to the land: leave Vine street wharf, Philadelphia for Hammonton by Railroad, 7½ A. M., or 4½ P. M. Fare 90 cents. When there inquire for Mr. Byrnes. Boarding conveniences on hand. Parties had better stop with Mr. Byrnes, a principal until they have decided as to purchasing, as he will show them over the land in his carriage, free of expense. Letters and applications can be addressed to Landis & Byrnes, Hammonton P. O., Atlantic Co., New Jersey, or S. B. Coughlin, 202 South Fifth Street, Philadelphia. Maps and information cheerfully furnished.

THE BETTER THOUGHT.

The Better Thought! how oft in days
When youthful passion fired my breast,
And drove me into devious ways,
Didst thou my wandering step arrest,
And whispering gently in my ear
Thine angel message, fraught with love,
Check for the time my mad career,
And melt the heart naught else could move?

This was no stern and harsh rebuke;
No "friend's advice," so true, so cold;
No message wise, such as in book,
Or by the teacher oft is told,
Which like the pointless arrow falls,
And rings perhaps with hollow sound,
But ne'er the wanderer recalls,
But ne'er inflicts the healing wound.

Thy voice was gentle, winning, mild;
Thy words told thou wert from above,
Like those with which the wayward child
Is wooed by a fond mother's love;
Or like a strain of music stealing
Across the calm and moonlit seas,
Which moves the heart of sternest feeling,
And wakes its deepest harmonies.

Sweet was thy presence, welcome guest;
And I, responsive to thy call,
Arose, and felt within my breast,
A power that made the fetters fall
From off my long enthralled soul,
And wove, as with a magic spell,
Griefs which yet owned the soft control
Of hopes that all might yet be well.

But ah! thou wert an injured guest;
How soon departed, soon forgot,
Were all the hopes of coming rest
That clustered round the Better Thought—
The tender griefs, the firm resolves,
The yearnings after better days,
Like transient sunlight which dissolves,
And leaves no traces of its rays!

Yet I despair not—through the night
That long has reigned with tyrant sway,
E'en now I see the opening light;
The harbinger of coming day;
To heaven I now direct my prayer—
O! God of love, forsake me not!
Grant that my waywardness may ne'er
Quench the returning Better Thought!

SELECT TALE.

A TALE OF WESTERN LIFE.

When Kentucky was an infant State, and before the foot of civilization had trodden her giant forests, there lived upon a branch of the Green river, an old hunter by the name of Slater. His hut was upon the southern bank of the stream, and save a small patch of some dozen acres that had been cleared by his own axe, he was shut up by dense forests. Slater had two children at home with him—two sons, Philip and Daniel—the former fourteen and the latter twelve years of age.

His elder children had gone South. His wife was with him, but she had been for several years an almost helpless cripple from the effects of a severe rheumatism.

It was early in the spring, and the old hunter had just returned from Columbia, where he had been to carry the produce of his winter's labor, which consisted mostly of furs. He had received quite a sum of money and had brought it home with him. The old man had for several years been accumulating money, for civilization was rapidly approaching him, and he meant that his children should start on fair terms with the world.

One evening, just as the family were sitting down to their frugal supper, they were attracted by a sudden howling of the dogs, and as Slater went to the door to see what was the matter, he saw three men approaching.

He quickly quieted the dogs, and the strangers approached the door. They asked for something to eat, and also for lodgings for the night. John Slater was not a man to refuse a request of that kind, and he asked the strangers in. They set their rifles behind the door, unslung their packs, and room was made for them at the supper table. They presented themselves as travelers bound farther West, intending to cross the Mississippi in search of a settlement.

The new comers were far from being agreeable or prepossessing in their looks, but Slater took no notice of the circumstance, for he was not one to doubt any man. The boys, however, did not like their appearance at all, and quick glances which they gave each other, told their feelings. The hunter's wife was not at the table, but she sat in her great easy chair by the fire.

Slater entered into conversation with the guests, but they were not very free, and after a little while the talk dwindled to occasional questions. Philip, the older of the two, noticed that the men cast uneasy glances about the room, and he watched them narrowly. His fear had become excited, and he could not rest. He knew that his father had a large sum of money in the house, and his first thought was that these men were there for the purpose of robbery.

After supper was over, the boys quickly cleared off the table, and then went out of doors. It had become dark, or rather the night had fairly set in, for there was moon two-thirds full shining down upon the forest.

"Daniel," said Philip in a low whisper, at the same time casting a look over his shoulder, "what do you think of these men?"

"I am afraid they are bad ones," returned the younger boy.

"So am I. I believe they mean to steal father's money. Didn't you notice how they looked around?"

"Yes."

"So did I. If we should tell father what we think, he would only laugh at us, and tell us we were perfect scarecrows."

"We will watch 'em, but do not let them know it."

The boys then held some further consultation, and going to the dog-house, they set the small door back, so that the hounds might spring forth if they were wanted. If they had desired to speak to their father about their suspicions, they had no chance, for the strangers sat close by him all evening.

At length, however, the old man signified his intention of retiring, and arose to go out of doors to see the state of affairs without. The three followed him, but they did not take their weapons. The old lady was asleep in her chair.

"Now," whispered Philip, "let's take two of father's rifles up to our bed—we may want them. We are as good as men, with the rifles."

Daniel sprang to obey, and quickly as possible the boys slipped two rifles from their pockets behind the great stove chimney, and then hastened back and emptied the priming from the stranger's rifles; and when their father and the strangers returned they had resumed their seats.

The hunter's cabin was divided into two apartments on the ground floor, one of them in the end of the building, being the old man's sleeping room, and the other room in which the present company sat. Overhead there was a sort of scaffolding, reaching only half way over the room below it, and in the opposite end of the building from the little sleeping apartment of the hunter. A rough ladder led up to the scaffold, and on it, close up to the boys' bed. There was no partition at the edge of the scaffolding, but it was all open to the room below.

Spare bedding was spread upon the floor of the kitchen for the three travelers, and after everything had been arranged for their comfort, the boys went up to their bed, and the old man retired to his little room.

The boys thought not of sleep, or if they did it was only to avoid it. Half an hour had passed away, and then they could hear their father snore. Then they heard a movement from those below. Philip crawled silently to where he could peep down through, and saw one of the men open his pack, from which he took several pieces of raw meat, by the rays of the moon, and moving towards the window, he shoved the sash back and threw the pieces of flesh to the dogs. Then he went back to his bed and laid down.

At first the boy thought this might be thrown to the dogs, to distract their attention; but when the man laid down, the idea flashed through Phillip's mind of poison. He whispered his thoughts to his brother. The first impulse of little Daniel, as he heard that his poor dogs were to be poisened, was to cry out, but a sudden pressure from the hand of his brother kept him silent.

At the end of the boys' bed was a dark window, a small square door, and as it was directly over the dogs' house, Philip resolved to go down and save the dogs. The undertaking was a dangerous one; for the least noise would arouse the vilains, and the consequence might be fatal. But Philip Slater found himself strong in heart, and he determined upon the trial. His father's life might be in his hands! This thought was a tower of strength in itself.

Philip opened the window without moving from his bed, and it swung on its hinges without noise. Then he threw off the sheets and tied the corner of it to the staple by which the window was hooked. The sheet was then lowered on the outside, and carefully the brave boy let himself out upon it. He enjoined his brother not to move, and then he slid noiselessly down. The hounds had just found the meat, but they drew back at their young master's beck and Philip gathered the flesh all up. He easily quieted the faithful brutes, and then quickly tied the meat in the sheet. There was a light ladder standing near the dog house, and setting this up against the building, Phillip made his way back to his little loft, and when once safely there, he pulled the sheet in after him.

The strangers had not been aroused, and with a beating heart the boy thanked God.—He had performed an act, simple as it may appear, at which many a stout heart would have quailed. The dogs growled as they went back into their kennel, and if the strangers heard them, they thought the poor animals were growling over the repast they had found.

At length the hounds ceased their noise, and all was quiet. An hour passed away, and so did another. It must have been nearly midnight when the men moved again, and the lad Philip saw the rays of a candle flash up through the cracks of the floor on which stood his bed. He would have moved to the crack where he could peep down, but at that moment he heard a man upon the ladder. He uttered a quick whisper to his brother, and they lay perfectly still. The fellow seemed to be perfectly satisfied that they were asleep, for he soon returned to the ground floor, and then Philip crept to the crack. He saw the men take knives, and heard them whispering:

"We'll kill the old man and woman first," said one of them, "and then we'll hunt the money. If them little brats up there (pointing to the scaffold) wake up, we can take care of them."

"But we must kill them all," said another of the villains.

"Yes," returned the speaker, "but the old ones first."

Phillip's heart beat with horror.

"Down the ladder outside! quick!" he whispered to his brother. Down, and start up the dogs! Run for the front door, and throw it open—it isn't fastened. Oh, do let the dogs in the house as quick as you can! I'll look out for father while you go!"

Daniel crawled out through the little window, and Philip seized a rifle and crept to the head of the scaffold. Two of the villains were just approaching the door of his father's room. They had set the candle down on the floor, so that its light would fall into the bed-room as the door was opened. Philip drew the hammer of his rifle back, and rested the muzzle upon the edge of the board. One of the men had his hand upon the latch. The boy-hero uttered a single word of heartfelt prayer, and then pulled the trigger. The villain whose hand was on the latch, uttered one sharp, quick cry, and then fell upon the floor. The bullet had passed through his brain.

For an instant the two remaining villains were confounded, but they quickly comprehended the nature and position of their enemy, and they sprang for the ladder. They did not reach it, however, for at that instant the outer door was flung open, and the hounds—four in number—sprang into the house. With a deep, wild yell, the animals leaped upon the villains and they had drawn them upon the floor just as the old hunter came from his room.

"Help us! help us, father!" cried Philip, as he hurried down the ladder. "I've shot one of them! They are murderers! robbers! Hold 'em, hold 'em!" the boy continued, clapping his hands to the dogs.

Old Slater comprehended the nature of the scene in a moment, and sprang to the spot where the hounds had the two men on the floor. The villains had both lost their knives, and the dogs had so wounded them that they were incapable of resistance. With much difficulty the animals were called off, and then the two men were lifted to a seat. There was no need of binding them, for they needed some more restorative agent, as the dogs had made quick work in disabling them.

After they had been looked to, the old man cast his eyes about the room. They rested a moment upon the body of him who had been shot, and then turned upon the boys. Philip told him all that had transpired. It seemed some time before the old hunter could crowd the whole teeming truth through his mind; but as he gradually comprehended it all, a soft grateful, proud light broke over his features, and he held his arms out to his sons.

"Noble, noble boys!" he uttered, as he clasped them to his bosom, "God bless you for this!—Oh, I dreamed not that you had such hearts!"

For a long time the old man gazed on his boys in silence, while tears of love and gratitude rolled down his cheeks, and his whole face was lighted up with the most joyous, holy pride.

Long before daylight, Philip mounted the horse and started for the nearest settlement, and early in the forenoon the officers of justice had the two wounded men in charge, while the body of the third was removed. They were recognized by the officers as criminals of notoriety; but this was their last adventure, for the justice they had so long outraged fell upon them and stopped them in their career.

Should any of our readers chance to pass down the Ohio river, I beg they would take notice of a large white mansion that stands upon the southern bank, with a wide forest park in front of it, and situated some eight miles west of Owensboro'. Ask your captain who lives there, and he will tell you, "Phillip Slater and Brother, retired flour merchants."—They are the Boy Heroes of whom I have been writing.

WRITTEN FOR A SOUTHERN PAPER, BUT SUITED TO MOST MERIDIANS.

MY DEAR SIR:—I have just returned from a tour throughout the State, and proceed to furnish you with an account of my labors and their success. I have been gone for three months, and assure you, in all sincerity, that I am fully satisfied. You furnished me with a list of one hundred and seventeen owing subscribers, as you will recollect. I have called upon one hundred and four of them, and have the honor of paying over to your order three dollars and twelve and a half cents, being the amount to which you are entitled. I return you the list numbered 1 to 117, and now give the reply of each.

No. 1—Is a minister. He says, in the first place, he never got one-half of the numbers, and in the next place your joker's column was too scurrilous. He can't think of aiding to sustain a paper that advertises horse races and gander pullings. Besides he knows from the tone of your editorials that you drink, and paying you would only be the means of your ending your days in the kennel. He wonders at your impudence in sending him his bill after pulbishing the account of the great prize fight.

No. 2—Is in jail for debt. He has not seen a half dollar for one year. Says he would pay with the utmost cheerfulness, if he only had the money, but he had to borrow a shirt to put on last Sunday. Admires your paper wonderfully, and hopes you will continue sending it to him. If you send him any more papers, he hopes that you will see that the postage is paid.

No. 3—Is a young doctor. Says your paper is beneath the notice of a gentleman. Would'nt give a——for a cart load of them. Says you inserted an article reflecting upon the profession. Cuss'd your bill, and says you may collect it the best way you can.

No. 4—Is an old maid. Says you are always making a fling at single ladies of an uncertain age. Wouldn't pay you if she was rolling in wealth, and you hadn't as much cash as would buy a crust of bread. Sent all the papers she had back a month ago, and says now that she sent them back she don't owe you anything.—Says she is even with you, and intends to keep so till the last day of her life.

No. 5—Is a gambler—a sporting gentleman. Says he got completely cleaned out last week at the races. Couldn't accommodate his grandmother with a half dime if she was starving. Likes your paper tolerably—would like it better if you published more races, and would occasionally give an account of a chicken fight. Likes the description of the prize fight amazingly—it redeemed a multitude of your faults. He is after a rich young green horn who arrived here last week. Will pay your bill out of the pluckings.

No. 6—Is an old drunkard. Hasn't got anything, and never expects to have. Gathered up all the papers that he had and sold them for a half-pint of rum to the doggery to wrap groceries in. Wished you would send him a pile. Winked at me when I presented your bill and inquired if I wasn't a distant relation of the man that butted the bull off the bridge.

No. 7—Is a magistrate. Swore he never owed you a cent, and told me I was a low rascal for trying to swindle him in such a barefaced manner. Advised me to make tracks in a little less than no time, or he would get out a warrant against me as a common cheat, and have me sent to prison. Took his advice.

No. 8—Is a politician. Meant to have told you a year ago to stop his paper, but forgot it. Tells you to do so now, and thinks you are getting off very cheaply in not losing any more by him. Believes you to be a rascal, and is too honorable to have anything to do with you, as it might compromise him and injure his prospects.

No. 9—Paid up like a man! The only one likes your paper firstrate, and means to take it and pay for it as long as you publish it or he lives. Asked me to dinner, and treated me like a king. An oasis in the desert!

No. 10—Is a merchant. Expects to break shortly—must save all his small change. Offered me a pair of breeches and a cotton handkerchief for the debt.—Refused him with scorn. Threatened to break my head.

Nos. 11 to 117—Had no money—wouldn't pay—said didn't owe.

I have not succeeded a whit better with the patrons of the other publications for which I am agent. I have expended two hundred and ten dollars traveling, and my entire commissions amount to eighty-two dollars and twenty-five cents. The business don't exactly suit me.

Please accept my resignation from your list of agents. I admire your paper very much myself, but it would be a queer-looking sort of a concern that would come up to the requirements of everybody. One wants independence in an editor—another don't want anything. One wants all slang—another wouldn't touch a journal that contained an irreverent line with a ten foot pole. One sentimental, lackadaisical miss, in pantalettes, wanted nothing but love poetry—another never read anything but the marriages.

All kinds of abuse I have to bear, too. I wouldn't mind it so much if they only cursed you and your paper, but they curse me, too! Swindler! rascal! blood-sucker! — these are some of the names they think proper to bestow upon me. I tried fighting for a while, and thrashed several patrons like blazes, but occasionally I got licked like thunder myself. Once I was put in jail for assault and battery, and only escaped by breaking out.

Send me a receipt for the three dollars and twelve and a half cents, and believe me

Yours in despair,

ARON SWEATWELL.

A Dilemma.

The following example of nicety of conscience is as good a jest as it is a model of truth:

Dr. Adam Clarke, the author of the celebrated "Commentaries on the Bible," on being admitted into full connection with his religious denomination, was asked, as usual, certain questions. Among other questions always asked at the time, was the following: "Are you in debt?" Though rather a whimsical incident, this question was likely to have deeply puzzled and non-plussed Mr. Clarke. Walking in the street that morning with another preacher, a poor man asked for a half penny. Mr. Clarke had none, but borrowed one from the preacher who was walking with him.—The preacher happening to go out of town he could not see him during the day to pay him this small sum. When he stood up with the others, he knew not what to say when the question "Are you in debt?" should be proposed. He thought, "I am in debt, they will ask me how much? and when I say I owe one half penny, they will naturally suppose me to be a fool. If I say I am not in debt, this will be a lie; for I owe one half penny, and am as truly under the obligation to pay as if the sum were twenty pounds, and while I owe that, I cannot, consistently with eternal truth, say I am not in debt. He was now most completely within the horns of a dilemma; and which to take he knew not; and the question being put to him before he could make up his mind—"Mr. Clarke, are you in debt?" he resolved the difficulty in one moment by answering—"Not one penny."

A Beautiful Sentiment.

The late eminent judge, Sir Allen Pork, once said at a public meeting in London:—"We live in the midst of blessings till we are utterbly insensible of their greatness, and of the source from whence they flow.—We speak of our civilization, our arts, our freedom, our laws, and forget entirely how large a share is due to Christianity. Blot Christianity out of the pages of man's history, and what would his laws have been?—what his civilization? Christianity is mixed up with our very being and our daily life; there is not a familiar object around us which does not wear a different aspect, because the light of Christian love is upon it—not a law which does not owe its truth and gentleness to Christianity—not a custom which cannot be traced, in all its holy, healthful parts to the gospel.

☞"Bridget," said a lady to her servant, Bridget Conley, "who was that man you were talking with so long at the gate last night?"

"Sure, no one but me oldest brother, ma'am," replied Bridget, with a flushed cheek.

"Your brother! I didn't know you had a brother. What is his name?"

"Barney Octoolan, ma'am."

"Indeed! how comes it that his name is not the same as yours?"

"Troth, ma'am," replied Bridget, "he has been married once."

☞Snow and hail fell to some extent, in portions of New York State, on Thursday of last week. The ground was frozen so as to form a hard crust upon it.

THE ELECTION.

The news we have thus far received concerning the election which took place on Tuesday last, indicates the defeat of the Democratic State Ticket, though by a much smaller majority than that obtained by the Opposition, last fall. We have made considerable gains in various localities, and if we go into the contest next year as a united party, Pennsylvania will cast her electoral vote, as usual, for the Democratic nominee for President. We have reached the lowest point of depression, and are bound to rise the next time.

As for Bedford county, she has done very well, though a full turn out on the part of our Democracy would have increased our majority several hundred. In several of our heavy townships, fifty or sixty Democratic voters stayed at home. Instead of turning out to thresh the Opposition, they remained in their fields and threshed their buck-wheat. On the other hand, our opponents attended the election, to a man. Their lame, their halt and their blind were there. Their aged, their feeble and even their sick were hauled to the polls. Will not Democrats learn that their enemies are always at their post and that if we desire success we must imitate their example?

Our entire county ticket, with the exception of the nominee for Associate Judge, has been elected. The majorities will range from 100 to 200. The Democratic State Ticket has about the same majority as last year. The race between Coffroth and Williams, for the Legislature, is close. The defeat of Capt. States, for Associate Judge, is owing to a practical joke of some excellent Democrats who delight in hearing the mongrel Opposition crow over the defeat of Democratic candidates. Their services are duly appreciated by the party they have betrayed.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the Democrats of Harrison, Colerain, Hopewell, Cumberland Valley, Liberty, and South Woodberry, in which we have made considerable gains over last year's vote. Old Southampton also did her duty, though she is not quite up to her old mark. We shall publish the official returns, next week. Meanwhile, let us pick our flints, and go at them again.

DEMOCRATIC MEETINGS.

We publish below such of the Democratic meetings lately held throughout the county, as we have been able to gather. If any of them are omitted, we must be pardoned for their non-appearance, for the reason that they were not furnished us for publication.

At the meeting at Barley's School House, in Bedford tp., the following gentlemen were appointed officers: OWEN MCGIRR, President; David Reighart, Daniel Rickel, Geo. Biddle, Daniel Dibert, Jacob D. Fetter, Shannon Kennedy, Michael Holderbaum, Joseph Price, Vice Presidents; and I. E. Reighard and Wm. Fletcher, Secretaries. The meeting was addressed by Jno. Cessna, Esq., and Dr. C. N. Hickok.

At the meeting at Cheneysville, in Southampton tp., DAVID ROLAND was appointed President, Adam Fetter and David Walter, Vice Presidents, and Edward Northcraft and John Adams, Secretaries. The meeting was addresed by O. E. Shannon and J. S. Mower, Esqs.

At the meeting at Wyant's, in Union tp., FRANCIS BEARD was appointed President, Samuel Beard, David Sleek, Ab'm Croyle, Isaac Bowen, Samuel Burke, Daniel Koons and John Boyer, Vice Presidents, and John H. Walter, Amos Berkheimer, Isaac Fickis and Joseph Walter, Secretaries. John Cessna, Esq., and B. F. Meyers addressed the meeting.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GAZETTE.

Saxton, Oct. 11, 1859.

The unterrified democracy of Liberty township held a meeting at Stonerstown, on Friday evening last. They were addressed by Maj. Tate and Hon W. P. Schell. The utmost enthusiasm prevailed.

Last evening a boy, by the name of Donahue, got his leg terribly fractured, on Shoup's Run Branch of the Broad Top R. R. He was riding to the mines on the coal cars, and by some means fell between them, in such a manner as to place his right leg obliquely across the rail, the wheels striking it in this position. He died last night.

During the last few weeks, a very decided improvement has been felt in the coal trade from the Broad Top Coal Field.

The following is the amount of coal shipped by the Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad:

Week ending Oct. 5, 1859,	- -	2,732 Tons.
Am't. shp'd. previously this year		90,625 "
Total amount	- - -	93,357 "
Am't shp'd to same date last year		73,652 "
Increase	- - -	19,705 "

Six miles and a half of the B. R. R. have been graded.

INTERESTING FROM CALIFORNIA.

SENATOR BRODERICK KILLED—TERRY NOT HURT.

ST LOUIS, Oct. 8.—The overland mail from San Francisco on the 16th ultimo, has reached Jefferson City.

The San Francisco papers contain a report of the duel fought between Senator Broderick and Judge Terry.

The duel took place near San Francisco, on the morning of the 13th ult. Senator Broderick fell on the first fire, pierced through the lungs. He lingered until half past nine o'clock on the morning of the 16th inst., when he died.

The community was profoundly agitated by this melancholy event.

Judge Terry was not hurt.

PARTICULARS OF THE DIFFICULTY.

During the political campaign closed by the election on the 7th ult., Senators Gwin and Broderick hurled defiance at one another, while expressing their readiness to settle their private griefs in a private way, or in the manner usual among gentlemen. A duel was looked for after the election, and the report that they were to fight, therefore, excited no great astonishment, though the result was anticipated with intense interest. But instead of a duel between Broderick and Gwin, it turned out that the affair was to be between Broderick ane Chief Justice Terry, of the Supreme Court. In the Herald, about two months since, the difficulty that occurred between Broderick and a lawyer named Perley, in which Judge Terry's name figured, was detailed in full, and the subsequent correspondence between Broderick, Perley and Kewen, was also given in full. Broderick, on that occasion, at the breakfast table of the International Hotel, in San Francisco, said that Terry, (who delivered a speech at the Democratic State Convention, attacking Broderick) did not treat him well, and that if he had received his deserts, the Vigilance Committee, when they held him (Terry) prisoner, would have hung him.

He also said that when in that trouble, Terry received his active aid, and his (Terry's) conduct was a poor return for the services rendered him when he wanted friends. Perley challenged Broderick, and, as it is known, he declined to fight, on the ground that Perley was an inferior. Soon after, Broderick announced from the stump that he would not accept a challenge before the election, but that after it was over he was ready for any of his enemies.

On Friday morning, the 9th ult., Broderick was waited on by Mr. Calhoun Benham, as the friend of Terry, who delivered a challenge to mortal combat. It was at once accepted, and it is understood the conditions agreed on were, that no person except the principals, seconds and surgeons, were to know the time or place of the duel. Broderick and Terry immediately left the city, a fact which soon became widely known and caused the greatest excitement.

Expectation was on tiptoe, and the sole topic of conversation was concerning the contemplated fight. It seems that a correspondence was opened with the view of settling the difficulty. The report is that Broderick was ready to give satisfaction by stating that, although he urged the language complained of on the spur of the moment and in the heat of personal debate, such were not the feelings of his heart. It is said this apology or explanation was not satisfactory, and a meeting was agreed on to take place at five o'clock on the morning of the 12th ult., the weapons to be six-shooters. At the appointed time that morning the parties were on the field in presence of about two hundred spectators and several police officers. The spot selected, near the Lake House, beyond the Mission, and in San Francisco county, did not turn out satisfactory to the seconds, either in consequence of the nature of the ground or the presence of the police officers, who expressed their determination to prevent the duel taking place. Two other places were examined, when, at length, the party crossed the line into San Mateo county, and at a little after seven o' clock that morning, fixed on the spot and commenced measuring the ground.

The principals, with their seconds, in a few minutes took their appointed places. At this moment the Chief of Police and three officers interfered. One of their number went up to Broderick and presented a warrant for his arrest, while another approached Terry. They denied the authority of the officers to arrest, as they were out of the limits of San Francisco; but it seems that the warrant was endorsed by a San Mateo magistrate. After considerable time spent in deliberation, they surrendered themselves and were liberated on parole.—Messrs. Broderick and Terry then agreed to appear before the Police Court at two o'clock on Monday afternoon, the 12th ult., the day before the duel. The result of that proceeding is a matter of little consequence now, as it did not prevent the hostile meeting.

It is said that Judge Terry resigned his seat on the Bench before leaving Sacramento. His seconds were Messrs. Calhoun Benham and Thomas Hayes. Mr. Broderick's seconds were Messrs. J. C. McKibben and another whose name we do not know, but probably either ex-Sheriff Colton, of Yreka, or Mr. John A. Monroe, of San Francisco.

A Lost County.

We have scarcely a reader that does not know that a controversy once existed between Pennsylvania and Virginia, in regard to the boundaries of their respective States. But few of them are aware that Virginia once organized a county called Youghigohan, that a county seat located, a Court House erected, and Courts actually held within the bounds of Allegheny county. Yet such we believe is the fact. We understand that the original minute book of this Virginia Court is now in the hands of James Veech, Esq., of Uniontown. The located county seat where this old log cabin Court house was erected, is now in Jefferson township, about a mile above Elizabethborough, and as we understand nearly a third of a mile from the river.' We are not awarethat other buildings were then erected; the whole tract is now a farm. We understand that John Walker, Esq., the father of Samuel Walker, remembered some remains of this famous county seat. Mr. W is only dead some five years; possibly some old persons yet living may have some recollection on this subject. The Virginia Legislature early in 1776 passed an Act creating three new counties in the West.

Ohio county, of which Wheeling is the county seat, was located on the Ohio river; Monongalia, of which Morgantown is the county seat, up the Monongahela and Youghiogan, or Youghiogheny, of which a site in Jefferson township was to have been the county seat.

From the entries made in the minute book, we fancy some of the scenes in this Temple of Justice were very similar to what H. M. Brackenridge, Esq., has recorded as having occurred in the opening of Court in Butler county. The running of Mason & Dixon's line, and the settlement of this vexed controversy in 1779, of course ended this Virginia county, and we are not aware that ever she has created another by the same name.

Prior to 1776, Augusta county, of which Staunton is the county seat, claimed jurisdiction here. Hence the Pennsylvania magistrates arrested by Connolly, in 1774, on a charge of usurpation of office in Virginia, were to have been sent to Staunton for trial, that being, as he alleged, the county seat, within which county Fort Pitt was located. It is also a curious fact that the first county seat located under the authority of Pennsylvania and within which county Fort Pitt admittedly was for nearly ten years, is almost as much of a farm as the Jefferson township one.—Hannahstown, about three miles north of Greensburg was the county seat of Westmoreland county (then including Allegheny) until its destruction by the Indians in July, 1782. We scarcely know if the indifferent tavern and blacksmith-shop that until a few years since, marked the site of Hannahstown still survives. But certainly Gallows Hill, where tradition asserts that some Indians were hanged for the murder of white men, can still be found in its summits. We, however, never heard of a capital case being tried in the lost Virginia County Court.—Pittsburg Journal.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Daring act of revenge by the Mexican Guerillas—Attack on the city of Brownsville, Texas—Five of its citizens killed—The Jail Broken open and Prisoners set free—Intense excitement—Flight of the citizens to Matamoras.—Assistance Received from the Mexicans.

NEW ORLEANS, October 10.—The steamer Arizona, from Point Isabel, has arrived, bringing startling intelligence.

The city of Brownsville, Texas, was attacked, on the 28th ult., by a band of Guerillas, who killed five of its citizens, broke open the jail and set free the prisoners, and committed other high-handed outrages on the persons and property of the inhabitants.

An intense excitement prevailed. The Mexicans had sent aid from Matamoras.

The Guerillas were headed by Cartenas, the same desperado who shot the Sheriff of Brownsville, last July, while the latter was attempting to arrest him.

The party, one hundred strong, mounted on horseback, rode into the city, and posted sentinels in various portions of it.

General Carvajal and others, from Matamoros, arrived in the city and persuaded the outlaws to leave.

Fort Brown was garrisoned with Mexican troops from Matamoros.

The citizens of Brownsville had formed a patrol.

The outlaws, one hundred and twenty strong had encamped near the city.

The Mexican General visited their camp and obtained a promise that they would not molest Brownsville again.

The citizens, however, still expect another attack, as the outlaws had boasted that there were more on their list to be killed.

An express had been sent to San Antonio for troops.

The Brownsville Flag (Extra) thanks the military and civil authorities of Matamoras for their timely assistance, and blames the Government for leaving them so defenceless.

The Sheriff and his posse came down to Point Isabel with the steamer Arizona's mails.

The cause of the difficulty was Cartenas' desire for revenge, for alleged injuries done him by some of the inhabitants of Brownsville.

The citizens had mostly fled to Matamoros for protection.

Late Elections—Democratic Victories.

Elections have recently been held in the States of California, Georgia, and Mississippi, and in the Territory of Kansas. The result of these elections, as far as ascertained, we give below.

CALIFORNIA.—The officers to be elected in this State were a Governor, Supreme Judge, two Members of Congress, a State Printer, and Representatives in the State Legislature. There were three tickets in the field—regular Democratic, anti-Lecompton Democratic, and Republican. The entire regular Democratic ticket has been elected by a large majority.

GEORGIA.—The contest in this State was also for local officers and Members of Congress, and there were two tickets in the field—Democratic and American. The returns come in very slow, but enough have been received to insure the re-election of Gov. BROWN, the Democratic candidate, by a very large majority.—The Democrats have certainly carried a majority of the Congressional delegation.

MISSISSIPPI.—The contest in this State was similar to that in Georgia. But few returns are in, but these indicate the complete success of the Democracy.

KANSAS.—The election in this Territory was on the question of the acceptance, by the people, of the Wyandot constitution, and the indications are that a heavy majority of the votes were cast in its favor. This will bring the question of the admission of Kansas as a State before the next Congress.

THE AMERICANS AND THE ENGLISH IN CHINA.—"An Eye Witness," in a letter to the London Times, thus speaks of the attitude of the Americans at the battle in China:

"I cannot end without referring to one matter that, in connction with this battle, should be ever remembered. Were we children of the same mother, we could not have received more sympathy and kindness than we met with the Americans. Never were men more unwillingly neutral. As we passed in to the assault, Flag Officer Tatnall was heard to say, 'Blood is thicker than water,' and in a hundred different ways he and all his people, to the very cabin boys, acted up to this homely proverb. When he heard that our admiral was wounded, at great personal risk he went on board the Cormorant to see him. Many of our men slept in the American tender on the night of the fight. Cigars, coffee, brandy—everything that a man could want—was placed before them. The American crew forgot themselves, and thought only of the British.

"A few days after the fight a Chinese junk, with a flag of truce, brought fresh provisions to the Powhatan, United States Frigate. These were immediately sent to our wounded. The bond of American brotherhood was indeed deeply cemented in our trial at the Peiho. I believe there was not a man in the fleet who did not feel it growing up within him, and I am sure there are thousands, if I may not say millions, at both sides of the Atlantic, who will join me in the fervent wish that that feeling of brotherhood may take deeper and deeper root in both lands."

The London Times, in an editorial in which it censures Admiral Hope for his too great confidence, and consequent defeat, concludes its remarks as follows: "It is more easy to found than to restore supremacy, but in the execution of the duty which devolves upon England and France, it is an unspeakable gratification to find that we may rely, at all events, on the sympathies of the great Anglo Saxon Republic. Whatever may be the result of the fight, England will never forget the day when the deeds and words of kindly Americans sustained and comforted her stricken warriors on the waters of the Peiho."

Other English journals also acknowledge the kindly sympathy of the Americans.

A BROOKLYN LADY DROWNED IN THE NORTH RIVER WHILE CROSSING FROM HOBOKEN.—NARROW ESCAPE OF FIVE OTHER PERSONS.—Yesterday a young lady, named Theresa Schultz, a resident of Brooklyn, lost her life by drowning while crossing the North River from Hoboken, under the following circumstances: It appears that the young lady in question started early yesterday morning (accompanied by five gentlemen acquaintances) in a small row-boat from Brooklyn to go over to Hoboken, in order to witness the great cricket match being played there. The party reached Hoboken about ten o'clock, and remained there until night set in. At about six o'clock they entered the boat for the purpose of returning home, when a strong wind set in making the river exceedingly rough, and causing the boat to roll greatly. Everything went on right until the boat reached about midway in the river, when Mr. Johnson proposed shifting oars. While this was being done, a too great leaning on one side of the boat caused it to upset and the occupants were precipitated into the water. Nothing was seen of Miss Schultz after the capsizing of the boat, and the supposition is, that she was hurried away instantly by the force of the current which, in that part of the river, runs very rapidly. The male occupants clung to the bottom of the boat until they providentially drifted near the Long Dock, between Hoboken and Jersey City, when they succeeded in reaching terra firma. The names of the five men are Thomas Johnson, Wm. Neill, Theodore Hoff, John Duffy, and Wm. Schultz, the latter being the brother of the lady who was drowned. Miss Schultz was but 22 years of age, a German by birth. Her only relation resident in America, was her brother.—Brooklyn Eagle, 7th.

PERILS OF BALLOONING.—MR. HADDOCK, who went up with Mr. La Mountain in the balloon Atlantic, from Watertown, N. Y., on the 22d of September last, has written a long and interesting narrative of the incidents and perils of the aerial voyage. The balloon was carried about three hundred miles due North from the place of starting, and landed in the midst of a wild and desolate forest in Canada, which extends from the Ottowa river to the frozen regions of the north. For four days after the balloon descended and was abandoned, Messrs. LA MOUNTAIN and HADDOCK wandered in the forest exposed to a cold, drenching rain, with no fire or shelter, and having nothing to eat but two raw frogs and four clams. Their clothing was torn from them, their bodies were lacerated by the briars and jagged rocks, and when nearly exhausted they came upon a hut occupied by a party of Canadian lumbermen, who furnished them with provision and piloted them out of the wilderness. The balloon was a total wreck and will never be rescued, The account of their sufferings is most thrilling, and should be a warning to adventurous balloonists to keep within the range of civilization.

A MAN LEAPS FROM A WINDOW UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF BELLADONNA.—Thomas Paggert, a machinist and man of family, residing on front street, near the Little Miami railroad depot, having been suffering severely from a nervous attack for several days, took an overdose of Belladonna to quiet his disordered mind, which so excited his brain that during the night he rose from his bed and, throwing up the window, leaped out. He fell about thirty-five feet, and would in all probability have been killed, but for an intervening frame shed, on the top of which he alighted, breaking his left arm, very badly spraining his ankle, and receiving several contusions upon the body.

Paggert says he thought he was at a hotel, and that a friend wished to see him, when, as P. supposed, he opened the door of his room, preparatory to walking down stairs. The next thing he remembered, was his recovery from insensibility and a sense of heavy pain, arising from his injuries.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FIRE IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, Oct. 11th.—The mahogany depot of Wm. Carner, on Merimac street, was destroyed by fire this morning, together with a large quantity of mahogany and rosewood. The loss, which is estimated at forty thousand dollars, was fully covered by insurance.

GEORGIA STATE ELTCEION.

AUGUSTA, October 11.—Brown's official majority for Governor, of this State, is 20,000.

A SNAKE FOR A BEFFELLOW.—With the above caption the Virginia Herald, printed at Fredricksburg, tells the following strange tale:—"About two weeks ago, Mr. John Elder, of this town, had an under-sack for a bed filled with straw at "Kenmore," by a negro man. It was brought home and placed under a feather bed which was slept on by a daughter of Mr. Elder's. The young lady complained on a number of occasions of having her slumbers disturbed by distinct thumps from underneath, but examinations revealed nothing. On Thursday morning, whilst Miss Elder was sitting down stairs, facing the steps which led to her room, she was startled by a curious noise, and looking up, discovered a moccasin snake descending, blowing and hissing in a style peculiar to the reptile. An examination of the upstairs premises was made at once, when a small hole was discovered in the under-sacking, and on ripping the bed open, the full length skin of a snake was found at the hole, which his snakeship had shed before he resolved on the strike for his freedom. The lady had occupied unenviable quarters for the last fortnight.

SENATOR BRODERICK'S FUNERAL.

ST. LOUIS, October 11.—The news by the Overland Mail, from California, is to the 19th ultimo, which has been anticipated.

The funeral of Senator Broderick took place on the afternoon of the 18th of September.—His remains were followed to the grave by about three thousand people, forming, with the carriages, the longest and most impressive funeral ever witnessed in San Francisco. The streets along which the funeral cortege passed, were all densely crowded, and the buildings along the line of procession were draped in mourning. Colonel E. D. Baker delivered the funeral oration.

HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS.

IT is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of plain common sense, they may be able so to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have used it. The Bitters operate powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, and liver, restoring them to a healthy and vigorous action, and thus, by the simple process of strengthening nature, enable the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious Complaints, arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels, producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these Bitters have no equal.

Diarrhœa, dysentery or flux, so generally contracted by new settlers, and caused principally by the change of water and diet, will be speedily regulated by a brief use of this preparation. Dyspepsia, a disease which is probably more prevalent, in all its various forms, than any other, and the cause of which may always be attributed to derangements of the digestive organs, can be cured without fail by using HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as per directions on the bottle. For this disease every physician will recommend Bitters of some kind; then why not use an article known to be infallible? All nations have their Bitters, as a preventive of disease and strengthener of the system in general; and among them all there is not to be found a more healthy people than the Germans, from whom this preparation emanated, based upon scientific experiments which have tended to prove the value of this great preparation in the scale of medical science.

FEVER AND AGUE.—This trying and provoking disease, which fixes its relentless grasp on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow in a short time, and rendering him physically and mentally useless, can be driven from the body by the use of HOSTETTER'S RENOWNED BITTERS. Further, none of the above-stated diseases can be contracted, even in exposed situations, if the Bitters are used as per directions. And as they neither create nausea nor offend the palate, and render unnecessary any change of diet or interruption of ordinary pursuits, but promote sound sleep and healthy digestion, the complaint is removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure.

For Persons in Advanced Years, who are suffering from an enfeebled constitution and infirm body, these Bitters are invaluable as a restorative of strength and vigor, and need only be tried to be appreciated. And to a mother while nursing these Bitters are indispensable, especially where the mother's nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child, consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart temporary strength and vigor to the system. Ladies should by all means try this remedy for all cases of debility, and, before so doing, should ask their physician, who, if he is acquainted with the virtue of the Bitters, will recommend their use in all cases of weakness.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.

☞Prepared and sold by HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburgh, Pa., and sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers generally throughout the United States, Canada, South America, and Germany.

NERVOUS DISEASES CONTROLLED AND CONQUERED.

Of all the various ills that detract from the enjoyment of human life, most of them may be traced to a disordered condition of the nervous system.—The horrors of Epilepsy, or falling Sickness, arise in most cases from this cause. Our readers may remember, on several occasions before, we have alluded to the wonderful cures, or modifications of Fits, made by the Vegetable Extract Epileptic Pills, invented and prepared by Dr. Seth S. Hance, of 108 Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md. We now record the fact, that persons will find these Pills equally efficacious in curing every form of nervous debility:—no matter whether manifested in the acute and excruciating form of Neuralgia, Tic-Doloreux, or Nervous Headache, the misery of Dyspepsia or Indigestion, the sufferings of Rheumatism or Gout, the melancholy hallucination of depressed spirits or hysteria, their effects will be equally happy and certain. Persons in the country can write to the inventor, and have the medicine forwarded to them by mail. The prices are, one box, $3; two boxes $5; twelve boxes $21; and sent to any part of the country, free of postage.—Direct your communications to SETH S. HANCE, 108 Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md.

WORMS.

☞As this is the season of the year when worms are most formidable among children, the proprietors of M'Lane's Vermifuge, Fleming Bros., of Pitsburgh, beg leave to call the attention of parents to its virtues for the expelling of these annoying, and often fatal enemies of children. It was invented by a physician of great experience in Virginia, who, after having used it for several years in his own practice, and found its success so universal, was induced at last to offer it to the public as a cheap but certain and excellent medicine. It has since become justly popular throughout the United States, as the most efficient Vermifuge ever known, and the demand has been steadily on the increase since its first introduction to the public.

☞Purchasers will be careful to ask for DR. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, manufactured by FLEMING BROS., of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Vermifuges in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of FLEMING BROS.

DRS. FITCH & SIKES, would state that their treatment of Consumption is based upon the fact that the disease exists in the blood and system at large, both before and during its development in the lungs, and they therefore employ Mechanical, Hygienic and Medecinal Inhalations, which they value highly, but only as Palliatives, (having no Curative effect when used alone,) and Invalids are earnestly cautioned against wasting the precious time of curability on any treatment based upon the plausible, but false idea that the "seat of the disease can be reached in a direct manner by Inhalation," for as before stated, the seat of the disease is in the blood and its effects only in the lungs.*

THE SALAMANDER SAFES OF PHILADELPHIA AGAINST THE WORLD.

Evans & Watson

Have had the surest demonstration in the following certificate that their manufacture of Salamander Safes has at length fully warranted the representations which have been made of them as rendering an undoubted security against the terrific element:

Philadelphia, April 12th, 1856.

Messrs. Evans & Watson,—Gentlemen,—It affords us the highest satisfaction to state to you, that owing to the very protective qualities of two of the Salamander Safes which we purchased of you some few months since, we saved a large portion of our jewelry, and all our books, papers, &c., exposed to the calamitous fire in Ranstead Place, on the morning of the 11th instant.

When we reflect that these Safes were located in the fourth story of the building we occupied, and that they fell subsequently into a heap of burning ruins, where the vast concentration of heat caused the brass plates to melt, we cannot but regard the preservation of their valuable contents as most convincing proof of the great security afforded by your Safes.

We shall take much pleasure in recommending them to men of business as a sure reliance against fire.

LATE FIRE IN DUBUQUE, IOWA.

GENTS:—I am requested by Mr. T. A. C. Cochrane, of this place, to say to you that on the morning of the 4th instant, about 3 o'clock, his store took fire, and the entire stock of goods were destroyed. The heat became so suddenly intense that none of the goods could possibly be saved; but fortunately his books and papers which were in one of your Champion Safes, were all preserved perfectly. And well they may be called Champion, for during the whole conflagration there was one incessant pouring of flame directly upon the safe which contained them. And still, upon opening it, the inside was found to be scarcely warm, while the outside was most severely scorched.

Yours truly,

N. A. McCLURE.
